Martin Luther King Jr Memorial

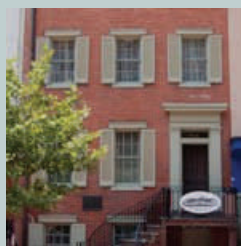

As you may or may not know, a memorial is currently under construction in Washington DC to commemorate the life and work of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Located on the National Mall, the memorial is on a four acre plot on the north-east corner of the Tidal Basin creating a visual "line of leadership" between the Lincoln Memorial and the Jefferson Memorial. The memorial dedication will take place on the National Mall at 11:00am on August 28, 2011.

Greater Cleveland Aquarium

Located in the historic Powerhouse on the west bank of the Flats in Cleveland, the Greater Cleveland Aquarium will feature 70,000 square feet of aquarium exhibits and related uses. It will also include a approximately 1,000,000 gallons of water and an underwater walk-through experience. The $70 million Greater Cleveland Aquarium is expected to open in the Fall of 2011.

Petersen House Nearing Completion

The Petersen House is a three story red brick townhouse located across the street from Ford's Theatre. After President Lincoln was shot, he was carried to the Petersen House where he was tended to until he died. Last September the National Park Service began a rehabilitation project to repair the exterior and interior of the Petersen House. Work includes the installation of a new climate management system and repairs to the historic windows, castings, doors and shutters. The NPS hopes the Petersen House will again be open to visitors by the end of the summer of 2011.

Make a Day of It!

Day trips are a great alternative for groups who can't travel overnight or simply don't have the budget for an overnight trip. Cleveland, Columbus, Pittsburgh, and Dearborn are some of the more popular day trip destinations that our groups travel to, and they have plenty of fun and educational attractions to visit. No matter what your group is interested in, these destinations have something for everyone. Contact our office for more information on specific destinations and pricing for a day trip for your group.
